With deep affection we dedicate this issue of the ALUMNAE NEWS LETTER to our friend and comrade, Mr. William Wayt King. For his wise and able management of the finances of our Alma Mater during his forty years of devoted service we shall hold him ever in grateful remembrance, and we shall treasure his friendship as one of the rich privileges of our student years. We are happy to feel that still as Custodian of Endowment he can give counsel to our College, and that from time to time in Staunton we may find fresh inspiration through a visit to "our King." Vivat diu Rex valeatque!

THE PORTRAIT UNVEILED

In the presence of about 200 guests, including alumnae, trustees, faculty members, students and special guests, the portrait of "our beloved William Wayt King," presented to the college by the alumnae, was unveiled on Saturday afternoon, December 15th, at four o'clock.

The formal program, which was opened with a group of Christmas carols by the college Glee Club, was held in the red parlor, in which the portrait hangs over the mantelpiece.

In presenting the portrait, the testimony of the affection of hundreds of Mary Baldwin girls for the man who served as business manager for forty-five years and in that time endeared himself to all of the Mary Baldwin girls who knew him, Maggie Bell Roller Robinson, president of the Alumnae Association, said:

"Alumnae and friends—This noble institution has been the scene of many gatherings, but none more dear to the hearts of the alumnae than this day upon which we are assembled to do homage to one who has done so much for us.

"I could look down through the years to conjure up so many instances of his kindness, his understanding, that before I had finished, we would all be weeping. But we are thankful that this is not a time for tears, but for rejoicing, in that we are still permitted to behold him in those same familiar lines that age could never wither, nor custom stale—on a canvass whereon those lines are so faithfully and so wonderfully portrayed. We are grateful for these two—and yet, there is another picture, whose lines no artist could ever quite brush in, or yet ever brush out—the picture we have in our hearts of William Wayt King! Long live 'the King.' God bless him, now and forever—'world without end.' To him, while he is living, then, be tributes of the tongue and pen. Be honor, praise, and heart thanks given. The loves of earth, the hopes of heaven.

"Dr. Jarman, representing the alumnæ, I have the honor and pleasure of presenting to Mary Baldwin College this portrait of our beloved friend, Mr. King."

Responding, on behalf of the college, Dr. Jarman said:

"Mrs. Robinson, in accepting this portrait on behalf of Mary Baldwin, I wish to thank the alumnæ for their thoughtfulness in suggesting this very beautiful way in which the college could honor Mr. King for his forty-five years of faithful service. Through your thoughtfulness and consideration, through the generosity of the Board of Trustees, and through the splendid artistry of Mr. Egeli, we are able to have this visible, tangible expression of Mr. King's bodily and spiritual presence within the college where his personality already so nobly dwells."

Mary Bell Archer, '35, president of the student body, responded for the students as follows:

"It gives me a great deal of pleasure to accept on behalf of the student body this picture of our friend, Mr. King. You, the alumnæ, had the good fortune to know him during your student days. We, the present generation of Mary Baldwin girls, are privileged to feel his influence throughout the college. Yet Mary Baldwin is built 'not just for time, but for eternity.' We rejoice in your having made it possible that even in the future Mr. King may be very real to those succeeding generations of Mary Baldwin students and that they may claim him theirs even as we have called him ours."

The portrait was then unveiled by Emily Pancake Smith, and Rosannah Milam, '35, one of Mr. King's own Red-Heads, presented him with a large bunch of red roses from the alumnæ.

Miss Pfohl graciously invited the guests to have tea and to meet Mr. Egeli, the artist, who came for the occasion.

At the conclusion of the program, tea was served in the parlor and on the back gallery. Mrs. Jarman, Nancy McFarland, Margaret McChesney, and Bessie Landes poured, assisted by Mary Virginia McComb Hodges, Tomlin Braxton Callison,, Laura Brown, and Mrs. Charles Roller, III.

Many alumnæ were here to give Mr. King their greetings in person. To those of you who could not be here, the messages of good will which came to him on that day gave him untold pleasure. We rejoice in the fact that this was a happy day for him and that we, the alumnæ, could play some part in making it such.

MARY BALDWIN COLLEGE

INSIDE AND OUT

An alumna of Miss Baldwin's day, of Augusta Female Seminary, has recently asked my co-operation in working out the details of a bequest to Mary Baldwin to be incorporated in her will. Sufficient information was furnished to guide her in setting up a legacy of considerable size as a scholarship fund, which in time will enable some girl to come to Mary Baldwin each year. I am sure that she would approve our passing this information on to the other alumnae of our beloved institution.

This generous action on the part of one of our own alumnae suggests an answer to a question that is puzzling greatly the presidents and boards of trustees of many colleges and universities; that is, to whom shall such institutions look as a source of supply for future funds for endowments and the necessary gifts for buildings and other needed equipment, now that the number of millionaires seems severely and perhaps permanently reduced. To be more specific, to whom shall Mary Baldwin look for increased endowments, scholarship funds, a gymnasium, an auditorium, and many other needs that cannot be provided from current income? There is only one answer—to her faithful and loyal alumnae.

Were a large number of our alumnae to follow according to their several abilities the example of this far-seeing friend, and make provision in their wills for a legacy to Mary Baldwin, there would be provided a steady and gradually increasing stream of funds to provide for the necessary growth and development of your institution. Statistics show that a large part of the wealth of our country is in the hands of women. Obviously most women cannot make large gifts to their alma mater while living, and it is inevitable that each is responsible for passing on her possessions to others in such a way as to do most good, and to project her personality and her service into the future, into other lives.

Herein seems to dwell not only an opportunity to do a noble, altruistic deed for another generation, but further to settle an old account. Has it occurred to you that no person pays in full for the total cost of his education? Schools and colleges are altruistic organizations, giving freely of the use of buildings, equipment, and income from endowment for the education of those entrusted to their care, thinking not of themselves but of the students. Here then to many is opportunity to fulfill an obligation, to pay in full, if such be possible, a debt partly spiritual, partly material.

Great individual wealth is not necessary to provide a great sum total of gifts for a college like Mary Baldwin which has a long list of alumnae. Some may of necessity think in terms of very small bequests, others of gifts in varying amounts, all in terms of great love accompanying such remembrances. And the need is urgent. Your institution, with a wealth of background and tradition furnished by you, and with vision and hope of a new day, is coming rapidly to the forefront of education today, in a way that is remarkable and almost unique. This very success multiplies her needs many times over. Success, and even prosperity, come to a college at great cost and with added demands, as well as increased opportunity for service.

There are none to whom Mary Baldwin may turn in this her day of prosperity and need and in her plans for the future save to her alumnae, to whom she has given so much. And none can so well know whether she has values and ideals that are worth preserving and perpetuating for the youth of this and another day.

The possibilities are untold. The college can furnish a list of projects calling for varying amounts, from a few dollars to many thousands. There are scholarships, memorials, opportunities to enshrine the name of a loved one, and above all an opportunity to invest in the most priceless of all values, Christian young womanhood.

Writing on this general topic of gifts through wills, Dr. William Mather Lewis, President of Lafayette College and also President of the Association of American Colleges, made an appeal to the alumni of Lafayette. He promised your President a message for the Mary Baldwin alumnae. Following his suggestion we take the following from his article:

"Some one will say that this matter of bequests is a gloomy way of providing money for an institution. Not at all. There isn't one of us who does not have a happier outlook on life when through insurance, a trust or some other method, he has provided for the future welfare of his family. The same thing is true in the college relationship. Most loyal alumnae have it on their minds to do something at some time for their college. It depresses them to think that they cannot do much at the moment. It will be a source of satisfaction to write a generous bequest into one's will and then cease to be concerned. Then with much pleasure one can tell her classmates at reunions of her action and urge them to go and do likewise. Before long the idea will take hold and the major financial problems of the college will be well on the way to solution. We submit this suggestion in the firm belief that it will strike a responsive chord. It is at least worth serious consideration."

FELLOWSHIPS AND SCHOLARSHIPS ARE CREATED

In accordance with Mary Baldwin's traditional record in scholarship, some interesting new plans have been made to advance the college along educational lines. These plans emphasize the following objectives: (1) assistance to promising graduates who desire to do graduate study, (2) methods to further the enrollment of a higher type of student in general each year, (3) incentives for more thorough and more constructive work from students already enrolled at Mary Baldwin.

In furtherance of the first objective, the Board of Trustees has authorized the college to grant financial aid for graduate study to graduates of this year or recent years, in cases where such graduates have done exceptional work in college. Also, a group of philanthropists interested in the college have decided to award a fellowship which will pay all of the expenses up to $1,000 for a science major who has shown decided ability in science and who wishes to enter some recognized graduate school for work toward a higher degree. The science fellowship will be awarded by the college in consultation with the science faculty. It will be awarded two years, according to present plans.

The second objective—raising the general scholastic standard of the student body—will be approached through scholarships, amounting to $1,500 in all and individually ranging from $100 to $500. These scholarships are to be offered on a competitive basis in 200 selected high schools of the United States. In awarding them, the personality and general background, as well as the scholastic ability of the applicants, will be considered. In addition to the usual requirements for such scholarships, candidates will be required to take a general intelligence test sent from the college to be administered by the principals or deans of the respective high schools and will be asked to submit a short essay answering the following questions:

1. Why do you wish to go to college?
2. What do you expect of college?
3. What do you intend to do after leaving college?

The third objective—incentives for better work by students already at Mary Baldwin—will continue to be furnished by the scholarships awarded to the students making the highest scholastic averages in each of the four college classes.

ALUMNÆ WEEK-END

April 5-7 has been announced as the date for the first Alumnæ Week-end at Mary Baldwin, and to each and every alumna a very cordial invitation is extended to come back and to take advantage of this splendid opportunity. Many colleges throughout the country have inaugurated alumnæ week-ends as a means of expressing interest in the intellectual growth of their alumnæ, to enable their alumnæ to come in closer touch with the work that is being done at their alma mater and to encourage alumnæ to continue their own education after leaving school by providing a basis for further study. It further provides an opportunity for alumnæ to return to their alma mater, to renew friendships and acquaintances, and to relive by-gone days among familiar scenes. The program is as follows:

“HAEC OLIM MEMINISSE JUVABIT”

SUE Stribling SNODGRASS, '91

(Presented on October 4th, as a tribute to the memory of Roselle Mercier Montgomery, '91)

In that falsely so called Primer which was the first year Latin text book used by our Miss Strickler, we memorized “haec olim meminisse juvabit,” and for many, many years Roselle and I quoted that to each other when we were having some especially happy time together. I would like to try to picture to you some of these happy times and in so doing give some faint idea of that unique personality that we want to keep alive, for no eulogy of mine could increase the love and admiration that her friends have for Roselle Mercier Montgomery, and no words from anyone's mouth or pen could give any adequate picture of her to those unfortunates who never met her.

The first memory picture is of a sweet-faced, short-haired girl of thirteen who roomed with her sister, Camille, in the room adjoining “Long Room,” where I, just a year older and with hair a trifle longer (our years!), roomed with my older sister. After that first year, Roselle, Eva, and Sue roomed the three years together.

But the first Motion Picture I would revive for you is in that little old recitation room on the hill, where on rows of wooden benches the nervous, frightened pupils squirmed and trembled under the eyes of that stern disciplinarian but incomparable teacher, Virginia Margaret Strickler. Looking over her eye-glasses Miss Strickler must have often seen Roselle as she trampled frantically on my foot, a signal that I was reading farther than she had translated (Roselle never translated the whole lesson!). Then when her turn came and her natural facility in words rescued her from complete failure and she gave the Latin of Virgil, Cicero, Plautus, or Horace in marvelous English, with what cool amusement Miss Strickler would say, “Stick to the text, Roselle, not so much imagination, please.” Wouldn't Miss Strickler have been proud to hear the encomiums of college professors and classicists of her pupil's renditions of Horace? I am sure that all those years she was giving Roselle such close personal instruction in “Composition,” she recognized her unusual talent and foresaw her literary success. I have often heard Roselle say that she never wrote a line without the almost conscious feeling of Miss Strickler's presence and influence. Several years ago, when here together, Roselle and I made a pilgrimage, just two of us, to Thornrose and, after a long search, we stood beside that rough granite stone which says, “Virginia Margaret Strickler, Teacher of Latin at Mary Baldwin for Fifty Years.”

Another picture is of the charming young hostess in her home on beautiful Greene St., Augusta, Georgia—on Sunday afternoons and evenings.

Nowhere else that I have ever heard of—and this, remember, was the Naughty Nineties, or the Mauve Decade—did the young men call on Sundays, not in single file, but in battalions! From four o'clock till midnight there was a steady stream of beaux, and Roselle would entertain from four to a dozen men at once, always the life of any crowd. Wasn't that a training in poise, versatility, wit, and social charm for a young girl barely eighteen?

She was already beginning her literary work in New York, having gone up to that city under Miss Wright's chaperonage (Miss Wright was the most brilliant intellect and finest teacher of our Alma Mater in my time). When she came to Martinsburg for my wedding, she had never known her own mother, so adopted mine (or vice versa), and she stayed on with mother while I was on my wedding trip. Then the next year, when Jane Faulkner was married at Christmas time, Roselle came on to visit me, but didn't stay for the wedding because her trunk got burned up (an express car on the B. & O. caught fire), and in the ensuing transactions with the railroad company, a lawyer friend, John Seymour Montgomery, helped her secure compensation for her loss. Soon after, back in her beloved southern town, she was married to this lawyer, and I have never known a more devoted couple.

I could go on indefinitely describing our visits to each other, our reunions back here at school, or of the Bumgardner's hospitable home, our notes and jaunts and jollifications, all the happy memories of this friendship that has endured for about forty-five years! In one of Horace's Odes to Maecenas (re-read by me, strange to say, last summer when Roselle was at Battle Creek Sanitarium) he calls his patron a "part of his very life or breath," and that "Meae partem animae," Roselle has been and still is to me.

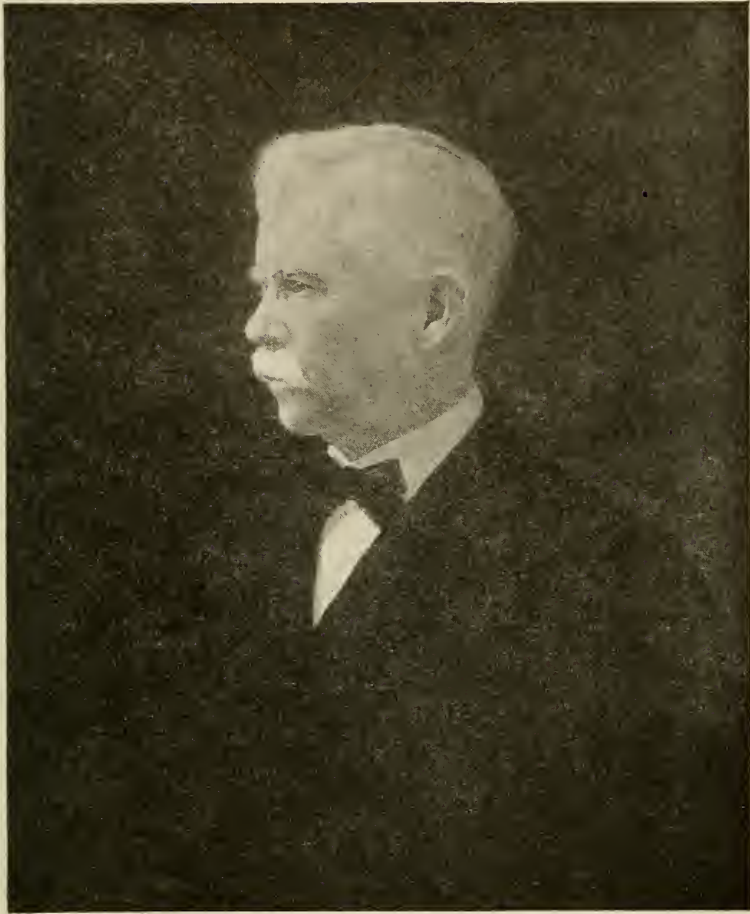

"The college with a background" has no name on its lists more distinguished than that of Roselle Mercier Montgomery."

PRESERVING THE ANTIQUITIES

Not every school is possessed of the background and rich traditions to which Mary Baldwin is heir. For nearly one hundred years, first as a seminary and now as an accredited college, she has kept in step with the progress of education, meeting current educational demands, and maintaining always a high standard of scholastic excellence. During that time girls from far and wide have trod the "path to knowledge" within her halls, and her daughters, now scattered to every part of the globe, have gone forth to take their places in every walk of life, conscious of her influence, high ideals and Christian principles.

Mary Baldwin girls everywhere are proud of the name and distinguished history of their Alma Mater and they will rejoice in a concentrated effort to preserve those things which reflect the traditions and experiences of her past. Our aim is to gather to-gether old letters, pictures, annuals, etc., any and all mementos of "the days that have been," with the hope of establishing a permanent museum. Surely there must be many such items among the alumnae and some of them have already made contributions. Several years ago we received a lovely old lace dress, ruffled petticoat, lace gloves and even the jewelry to make the costume complete from Mary Moore Holmes, '86. Another alumna has promised us an autographed picture of Dr. Rufus Bailey, the first principal of Augusta Female Seminary. We are extremely appreciative of these and others, but are desirous of more.

Perhaps in some secluded nook one of those classic gray hats, for many years a requirement and virtual necessity of every Mary Baldwin girl's wardrobe, might be found, or "among your souvenirs" a letter that you, or your mother or even your grandmother wrote home in student days. Maybe some proud possessor of a coveted "golden report" would part with it. To us, the alumnae, these things have a meaning all their own. Is it not a worthy and commendable project for us to assemble these treasures and place them here so that every old girl may have access to them? Won't you instigate a "treasure hunt" and communicate your "finds" to the Alumnae Office?

PORTRAIT OF DR. FRASER

Preceding the meeting of the Board of Trustees on Thursday evening, February 21st, the portrait, copied from a photograph by Mr. Bjorn Egeli, of the late Reverend Abel McIver Fraser, the first president of Mary Baldwin College, from 1923-1929, was unveiled in the office of the president of the college. The presentation to the Board of Trustees was made by President Jarman and accepted by Dr. Hunter B. Blakely, chairman of the Board, in the presence of Mrs. Fraser, Miss Margaret Fraser, and a representation from the alumnæ, faculty, and student body.

It is very fitting that Mary Baldwin should so honor a man who gave freely and generously of his time and efforts in her behalf and who, for many years, not only as president of the college but as a member of the Board of Trustees and as chaplain for thirty-one years, was intimately connected with the school and to whose foresightedness the college is deeply indebted.

MARY BALDWIN TO A MISSIONARY'S DAUGHTER

By JANIE STEVENS, '37

(Janie Stevens, granddaughter of Janie Perrin Thompson, has held the Alumnae Missionary Scholarship for the past three years. Her home is in Fowning, Ku, China.)

To every Mary Baldwin girl, Mary Baldwin means something never to be forgotten, a place, a name, a tradition which belongs to you and which nothing can take away from you. But to the daughter of a foreign missionary it has, perhaps, even a different meaning, all this and more.

You can remember how, as a very small girl, you dreamed, schemed, and planned for the time when you would be going away to college. How wonderful it was to think that some day you, too, would be "grown up"! To a missionary's daughter, college means even more, for it means coming to America, becoming a part of the country to which she belongs and, yet, about which she knows so little. It is very hard, at first, for her not to feel that, somehow, she is different, that she does not seem to belong. College, better than anything else, can help such a girl to adapt herself to the new surroundings of the homeland. To be thousands of miles from home, family and friends is hard, but the friendly interest displayed in each student here at Mary Baldwin helps wonderfully to relieve that feeling. The size of the student body makes it possible for everyone to know everyone else, and the aim of the college to be as much like home as possible has been accomplished. The friendships, the kindly, personal interest in everyone fit in with the students' idea of a perfect "college home." Instead of being absolutely lost in a bewildering crowd, as I had expected, Mary Baldwin has been a place where I could "find" myself and where I could more easily adjust myself to all those things which did seem so new and different.

There is still another meaning to Mary Baldwin, this, perhaps, more than any other. Along with your college life, your daily activities and duties, there seems to be something spiritual underlying everything, something so intangible that I find it almost impossible to explain, and yet it's there, a certain quality which seems to relate ordinary life to higher and more worthwhile things. I always dreaded facing America as it had been pictured to me. I almost felt that no one in America would have the same ideals and standards in which I believed and which were a part of me. But reports are apt to be exaggerated if a long way from their starting point, you know! Mary Baldwin has restored my confidence. She has showed me that a college may be just as much a college as any other and yet give her students much more than an education from books. Mary Baldwin can and is helping me to see the true meaning of a life lived to the full.

I cannot close without a word about the atmosphere and physical beauty of the place, an important item in the affection of every Mary Baldwin girl for the school. Something of the calmness and character of those whose lives went into its making is reflected in its very walls and remains to impress on every student the tradition and culture, still living, of her past.

October 4th

Celebrating the 105th anniversary of the birth of Miss Mary Julia Baldwin, the Founder's Day exercises began at ten o'clock with the senior investiture service, held on the front terrace. The speaker on this occasion was Dr. Gillie Aldah Larew, professor of mathematics at Randolph-Macon Woman's College, who, in a very effective manner showed that the young college student of today is in a situation comparable to that of young Southerners after the War Between the States, when the problem of rebuilding and restoring their whole section faced the young boys returning from the war, mature far beyond their years but turning courageously to school again.

Continuing, she said: "Miss Baldwin, I suppose, would be surprised if she could see the Mary Baldwin student body now and could see the books which they are studying. But, even if the college has changed in many respects from the school it once was, just as methods and conditions have changed from those when the young Civil War soldiers re-entered school, the direction, the human spirit back of the ideal and dream, remain the same.

"The depression has made necessary some changes in educational objectives. The colleges not so long ago were told that they should first of all prepare their graduates to make their living. Now it is realized that there is not enough work to go around . . . but that the important thing is to prepare students to make intelligent and worth-while use of leisure time. In other words, the challenge to the college is 'Teach souls to fly.'

"Young women, I congratulate you that you have come to your kingdom for such a time as this."

Evelyn Brown, of Tarrytown, New York, president of the senior class, presided over the ivy ceremonial, presenting to Dr. Jarman, representing the faculty, and to each class president, Gerda Quelch, of Wilmington, North Carolina, vice-president of the senior class, Mary Delia Nichols, of Washington, D. C., of the junior class, Patty Jo Mahoney, of El Dorado, Arkansas, of the sophomore class, and Lucy Lewis, of Columbia, South Carolina, of the freshman class, the ivy, which they, in turn, planted along the stone wall in front of the college.

Dr. Jarman and Dean Pfohl then formally invested the seniors with their caps and gowns and the program was concluded with the singing of the senior song and the Alma Mater.

The annual alumnae celebration was unique this year in that for the first time it was held in our own Club House. Among our distinguished guests was none other than Mr. King himself. A beautiful bunch of red roses, his gift, adorned the table.

Maggie Bell Roller Robinson presided and opened the program with a beautiful and eloquent appreciation of Miss Mary Julia Baldwin. She paid tribute to the ideals of Miss Baldwin which have always guided the policies of our Alma Mater and which are present today as ever before.

Following this, Emily Pancake Smith announced that the fourth of October had been chosen as the date to begin work on the portrait of Mr. King. She said, "With his radiant personality Mr. King has throughout the years emulated the high ideals of Miss Mary Julia Baldwin, whom he loved and admired. It is therefore fitting that her birthday should be selected by Mr. King as the date upon which we shall begin his portrait."

Just a year ago in September, Mary Baldwin girls all over the country were saddened by the death of one of our most distinguished alumnae, Roselle Mercier Montgomery. It seemed appropriate that, while honoring our illustrious dead, some tribute to her memory be paid, and no more fitting person could be selected to do this than her devoted school-girl friend, Sue Stribling Snodgrass. Mrs. Snodgrass's remarks will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Dean Pfohl told the alumnae of recent changes and improvements at the school, commenting upon future plans and policies. She stressed particularly the idea of education among the alumnae and expressed the hope that every Mary Baldwin girl who could would avail herself of the opportunities afforded by the coming alumnae week-end, our first step in this field.

At the conclusion of the program, tea was served to the one hundred and twenty-five guests, which included the Granddaughters, the Little Sisters, the Red Heads, the faculty, and a number of out-of-town alumnae.

The day's events concluded with a brilliant concert in the chapel at 8:15 by Efrem Zimbalist, the celebrated violinist.

A LETTER FROM MISS BALDWIN

(This letter was sent to Dean Pfohl by Mary Elizabeth Weeden '34x32, to whose grandmother it was written by Miss Baldwin.)

Augusta Female Seminary
September 10, 1880.

Mrs. M. N. Weeden,
Huntsville, Alabama.
Dear Madam:

I have just received your letter and write to say that I reserved a place in a large pleasant room for your daughter, and I have taken great care to select her roommates from those whom I consider among the nicest girls in the Seminary, and hope she will find them congenial. It will be impossible for me to give your daughter a bed alone; had you asked me to make this arrangement earlier I could have accommodated you, but every place in the boarding department is full. I am declining applications every day and many in order to attend the school have obtained board in town. I am extremely sorry that I could not grant your wish. Telegraph me when your daughter leaves Huntsville, and I will send my secretary to meet her in Waynesboro. It shall be my earnest desire to do all that I can for the happiness and advantage of your daughter, and I hope you and she will feel at the close of the session that it was well for her to have been here in the seminary home. I think I understand the mother's anxiety in sending a daughter among strangers; I am sure I do, the responsibility which dwells upon me. I fully sympathize in all these joys and sorrows. I hope she will find the influences of the college good and the society of her roommates and school mates not inferior to that to which she has been accustomed.

She will be particularly fortunate in her church privileges; we think we are particularly famed in having Dr. McFarland for our minister; he interests and instructs both young and old.

Hoping to see your daughter this week.

I am yours, very truly,

M. J. Baldwin.

FROM THE REGISTRAR'S OFFICE

Do you believe in the ultimate perfectibility of your college? We do because we have evidence that we are making tremendous strides every year. Progress is indicated in many ways besides the purely numerical. But numbers can never be discounted. Here are some facts that will interest you who want to see your college improving.

The enrollment for the session 1934-35 is the largest in the history of the college. During the first semester we had 233 boarding students and 68 day students. A few of these students left at Christmas time or at the end of the semester but several new applicants were accepted to fill the vacancies. A new dormitory, Fraser Hall, was opened to care for fifteen of the boarding students who otherwise would have been refused admittance because of lack of space. Fraser Hall is the home next to the First Presbyterian Church where Dr. Jarman lived from 1929-34. Even with the additional space afforded in Fraser the college could not accept all applicants.

Representatives from 32 states, Puerto Rico, and two foreign countries are in the student body this year. Two students from China are daughters of missionaries. Our foreign exchange student for the session is Jeannie Richaud from Nice, France.

There are 34 seniors who are candidates for the degree in May. This is the second largest graduation class of the college.

We had an unusually large number of students on the honors and high honors lists for the first semester. It is a mark of academic distinction to be placed on these lists. Two students made all-A records: Imogen Bird of Washington, D. C. and Emily Goodwin of Millwood, Va. Imogen Bird also had the recognition of being elected by the faculty to the Mary Baldwin Honor Society in February.

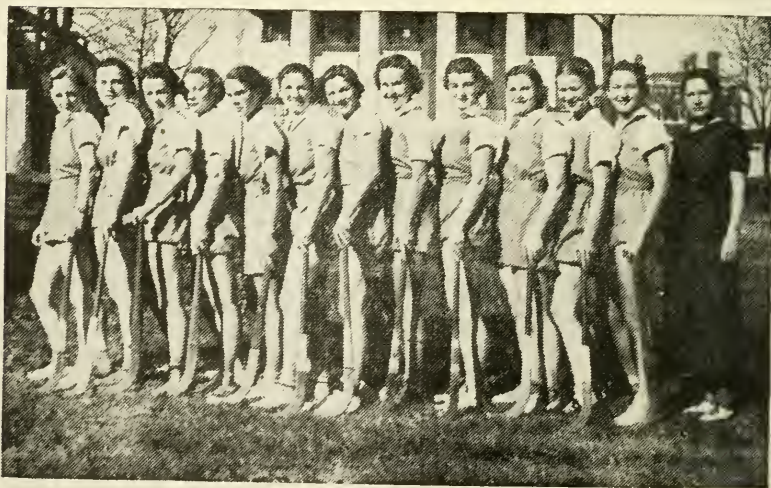

The curriculum has been expanded by the addition of several new courses including: Criminology, Human Geography, Greek Literature in English Translation, and Latin Literature in English Translation.

In regard to our prospects for next year, we are glad to report that our enrollment is considerably greater than at the corresponding date last session. Will you help us as you have always done by sending the names and addresses of any prospective students whom you want to recommend to the college? Please send these names as soon as possible as we are not able to accept all students who apply for admission and we want to be able to give all of your friends ample consideration. You know the type of student Mary Baldwin wants. Help us to fill the college with the ideal which the alumnae through so many student generations have helped to build.

When we asked our new students this year why they came to Mary Baldwin, the answers were very interesting. The reason given most often was: "Because of the influence of an alumna of Mary Baldwin." Sometimes the alumna was the mother or sister of a student, but quite often a friend who recommended her Alma Mater. Other factors that influenced many students were: the catalogue and view book of the college, the friendship of some student now attending Mary Baldwin, the location of Mary Baldwin, and a personal visit to the campus. The fact stands out very clearly that our alumnae are our best advertisement.

AT ODD MOMENTS

THE WINNING HOCKEY TEAM

FROM THE ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT

Sports began on September 22nd with the Athletic Association picnic, held at Crafton's Park. Besides swimming and dancing, each class presented a skit and an exciting baseball game between faculty and students resulted in victory for the former.

All hockey players will be interested to know that the field at the farm is being turfed in readiness for next fall. And those who have so many times trudged back and forth to and from the farm will hear with pleasure that this feat is now accomplished in taxis in only a few moments. The hockey championship was won by the sophomores, but not without keen competition from the juniors, who were contestants in the final game.

For the first time Mary Baldwin girls have had the use of the Y. W. C. A. pool twice a week. Besides "dip-hour", open to all students, regular classes were held, culminating in the swimming meet on December 4th. Patty Jo Mahoney, '37, of El Dorado, Arkansas, won the highest number of points, with Lelia Huyett, '38, of Charles Town, West Virginia, second and Betty Curry, '37, of Wooster, Ohio, third. The diving honors went to Patty Jo Mahoney, '37, first, a tie for second place between Betty Curry, '37, and Lucy Lewis, '38, of Columbia, South Carolina, and a tie for third place between Janis Holley, '37, of Crown Point, Indiana, and Katherine Dyer '36, of Martinsville, Virginia.

In the annual posture contest, Marjorie Stuart, '35, of Wayne, Pennsylvania, was the winner, with Betty Carpenter, '37, of Pennsville, New Jersey, and Mellie Hussey, '37, of Tarboro, North Carolina, taking second and third place respectively.

In a hotly contested game, the sophomores defeated the freshmen for the basketball championship on March 14th.

About forty-five girls, a number of whom are beginners, have taken up riding with a vengeance and spend pleasant afternoons riding "over hill and dale". Last fall a riding picnic was held and several moonlight rides. The Horse Show is scheduled for May 4th, and a new feature may possibly be a faculty class.

Field Day will be held May 11th, on which occasion the baseball championship will be decided, and on May 18th the Athletic Banquet when individual awards for the year will be made.

Tennis and archery are still popular out-door sports while ping pong and pool hold sway indoors. Badminton has been introduced this year, and at any hour of the day or night one is certain to see shuttlecocks flying back and forth across the net in the gym. Other innovations this year in the realm of minor sports are croquet and horse-shoe pitching at the athletic field.

Golf is still very popular and, because of the opportunity of taking lessons under Mr. Lowden, Scotch Pro at the Stonewall Jackson Golf Club, there is an unusually large number of beginners.

Mary Baldwin joined the Athletic Federation of College Women in February and two delegates will attend the conference in Greensboro, North Carolina on March 21st.

NEW FACULTY

There are six new members of the faculty at Mary Baldwin this year: Dr. Karl E. Shedd, Miss Christine Gunlaugson, Miss Ruth Spoor, Major Marshall M. Brice, Miss Mary Elizabeth Ellis and Miss Elizabeth Poole.

Dr. Shedd, professor of Romance Languages, was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1916 and holds his M. A. degree from Harvard University and his Ph. D. degree from Yale University. In 1933 he held an honorary Research Fellowship in Spanish at the latter institution. Dr. Shedd has had wide teaching experience and comes to Mary Baldwin from Trinity College, Hartford, Conn.

Miss Gunlaugson succeeds Mrs. Beulah Hollingsworth Chiapsuro, who was married during the past summer, as director of voice and public school music. She received her B.M. degree from MacPhail School of Music and studied under Astillero Rogerio in Milan, Italy, where she also made her operatic debut.

Miss Spoor, who received her A.B. degree from Willamette University and her M.A. in Fine Arts at Radcliffe College, comes to Mary Baldwin as director of art. Her experience in various lines of artistic work has been wide. At one time she worked under Donald Oenslager as Instructor of Stage Design at Bread Loaf School.

Major Brice is a member of the faculty of Staunton Military Academy and instructor in English at Mary Baldwin. He holds his B.S. degree from Clemson College and his M.A. from the University of Wisconsin.

Miss Ellis received her B.M. from the Eastman School of Music at the University of Rochester, where she won several competitive scholarships in violin.

Miss Poole comes to Mary Baldwin as assistant dean and instructor in French. She received her A.B. degree from the University of Kentucky in 1932, where she was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and received the Algernon Sidney Sullivan award. In 1933 she received her M.A. degree from Duke University. She has completed some work on her doctor's degree.

Miss Mary Fishburne, who was granted a leave of absence for the second semester 1933-34, in order to continue her studies, has returned to Mary Baldwin this year. She received her Master of Music degree at the University of Michigan.

CONCERTS AND LECTURES

The opening event of the year was a concert on October 4th by Efrem Zimbalist, the celebrated violinist. Playing before a large number of alumnæ, students and friends, the audience was conscious not only of the perfection of his technique and quality of tone but also of the artist's genuine love for music.

On November 8th Dr. Bruno Roselli, former professor and head of the Italian department at Vassar College, lectured. His subject was a comparison of the Nazi government of Germany and the Fascist government of Italy. He gave an excellent survey of conditions and problems in these two countries, referring especially to their roles in regard to world peace.

The first of the faculty recitals was a piano concert on November 23rd by Miss Mary Fishburne, assistant professor of piano and harmony. Her program, including a Bach and a Cæsar Franck composition as well as an extremely modern group, was brilliantly executed and demonstrated an exquisite mastery of tone and technique.

Arthur Fear, principal baritone of the Covent Garden Opera Company, was presented on December 1st. This was the artist's first American performance and our appreciation of him has been justified by the praise he has received from critics elsewhere.

The second and third faculty concerts were given by Miss Christine Gunlaugson, soprano, on January 31st and by Miss Mary Elizabeth Ellis, violinist, on March 7th. Miss Gunlaugson completely won the audience by the ease with which she sang and by her beautiful tone quality. Miss Ellis displayed unusual skill, especially for a young artist, and her rendition of a difficult program was enthusiastically received. Miss Fishburne accompanied both of these artists.

Madame Ponafindine, an American woman who married a member of the former Russian nobility, lectured February 7th, her subject being "Women and Youth—The Gravest Problem of Future Russia."

On March 19th, Professor Wilmar Robert Schmidt will perform on the new Janko Keyboard which he has recently installed on a piano in the chapel. Professor Schmidt has given concerts abroad using this particular method, which gives greater range and simplifies the technique. There are only a very few of these key-boards in America.

The Davidson College Glee Club and Orchestra will be presented on March 22nd and on April 5th, during the Alumnæ Week-end, the Paris Instrumental Quintet has been engaged. This is the second consecutive season for the Quintet in the United States.

Doris Humphrey and a group of dancers will appear in a lecture-dance recital on April 15th, and on April 25th a concert by the pupils of Herr Schmidt and the Mary Baldwin Orchestra will be presented.

OFFICIALLY REPRESENTING MARY BALDWIN, 1934-35

Mary Baldwin has been represented officially this year by administrative officers, faculty members, and students. There is always inspiration in meeting representatives of other colleges, in hearing and taking part in the discussions of college aims and problems, and in enjoying social hours together. The occasions listed, at which we have been represented, serve to illustrate not only the fact that Mary Baldwin enjoys and values these contacts but also the variety of interests which continue to make up the American educational system. THE AMERICAN ALUMNI COUNCIL

Mary Baldwin has recently become a member of the American Alumni Council. The annual meeting of District III, which includes colleges in the states of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia, was held on February 1st and 2nd in Atlanta, Ga., with Agnes Scott College and Emory University as joint hosts. Among the speakers were President James R. McCain of Agnes Scott and President Harvey W. Cox of Emory. At the business sessions every phase of alumnae work was discussed and many helpful suggestions were made to those secretaries in attendance. Mary Baldwin was represented by the alumnae secretary, Mary Moore Pancake, '28.

DEATH OF OLDEST ALUMNA

Mary Baldwin girls will learn with real regret of the death on February 23rd of our oldest alumna, Elizabeth Emma Stephens Carmack, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. W. Dillard, in Handley, Texas. Had she lived until March 11th, Mrs. Carmack would have celebrated her 103rd birthday.

A student at Augusta Female Seminary in 1845, she was, throughout her entire life, devoted to her Alma Mater and deeply interested in all that concerned it. Several years ago she wrote for us some charming reminiscences, which appeared in the News Letter, of the days when Dr. Rufus Bailey was principal and Mary Julia Baldwin a "recent graduate". These reflections are among our treasured possessions.

A person of keen intellect and remarkable vision, enriched by the experiences of a full and active life, a true and noble Christian character, Mrs. Carmack was an inspiration to all who knew her. Her long life has been attributed to her "serenity". To Mary Baldwin girls she has been the essence of our heritage and our tradition, and, while we honor and glory in her memory, we mourn her loss. Our sincere sympathy is extended to the members of her family in their bereavement.

FROM THE ALUMNÆ CLUB HOUSE

When school opened in September, the returning students could scarcely believe their eyes at the improvements that had been made at the Club House. Could it possibly be the same hall, now attractively furnished with a new drop-leaf table, overhanging mirror, chairs, rug, etc.? Wandering from room to room, the exclamations of surprise and delight became louder and louder. Everything spick and span, with a fresh coat of paint and new paper on the walls. One room was entirely equipped with new furniture. The hard work expended by the Club House Committee, of which Annabel Timberlake Hogshead is the very capable and efficient chairman, during the summer has been rewarded by the praise received from students and returning alumnae, and we have just cause to be proud of our own alumnae house. We wish more of you would come to see it and enjoy it for yourselves.

During Christmas holidays the Alumnae Office was moved upstairs, in order to give more space downstairs. It now occupies a front room, overlooking the front terrace of the campus, and with fresh paper and lovely new curtains is very attractive.

On January 12th the alumnae held open house for the students at the Club House from four to six o'clock. It helped greatly to dispel those "after Christmas blues" and the large number who came enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

Mrs. Minnie Grattan Weston, hostess at the Club House for the past year, felt it necessary to give up her duties, effective March 1st. We wish to take this opportunity of expressing our sincere appreciation of her splendid service to the alumnae and to the Club House and our regret at her departure. We feel ourselves very fortunate in having secured as her successor Miss Margaret Timberlake, and under her capable management are assured of the continued success of the Club House.

ACADEMIC

CAMPUS NEWS

To the Mary Baldwin scene two buildings have been remodeled and added as permanent fixtures. The house across the street, next door to the First Presbyterian Church, familiarly known to some as "Teachers' Hall," to others as the home of President and Mrs. Jarman, has been converted into a dormitory to take care of fifteen additional students. Dr. and Mrs. Grafton have an apartment on the ground floor. The large, brick house at the top of the high hill, back of Hill Top, was renovated during the fall and, attractively and handsomely furnished, is the imposing new home of the President.

The annual House Party for high school seniors will be held the first week-end in May, and an attractive and interesting program is being arranged for this occasion. It is hoped that alumnae will send in the names of any high school seniors whom they would like to have invited.

The Granddaughters' Club has nine new members this year: Lucile Bruce, daughter of Lucile Millsaps, '12, Frances Milton, granddaughter of Anna Crawford, Page Moffett, granddaughter of Nancy Harris Moffett, '76, Virginia Smith, daughter of Mary Eleanor Price Smith, '02, Elizabeth Thompson, granddaughter of Sallie Bell, Sarah Dudley Whitmore, granddaughter of Sarah Dudley Staples and Naomi Elizabeth Lamon Whitmore, Winifred Young, daughter of Kate Towberman Young, '10, Mary Ann Valz, granddaughter of Mary Waddell Bell, '76, and Katie Parkins, granddaughter of Katie Harnsberger Harnsberger, '71.

The Little Sisters have six new members: Doris Benson, sister of Frances Benson Boughton '36x34, Virginia Fowler, sister of Helen Fowler '34x32, Adele Gooch, sister of Julia Gooch, '34, Anne Harrison, sister of Betty Keith Harrison '34, Edith Mary Humphreys, sister of Elsie Humphreys McNair '32, Sarah Latham, sister of Agnes Latham '34, Jessie Ann Roudabush, sister of Virginia Roudabush '35, Annie Louise Steele, sister of Elizabeth Steele, '34x32, Annie Terrell, sister of Elizabeth Terrell, '34x32, Agnes Terrell, '23, and Mary Terrell '27, Frances Waide, sister of Helen Waide '34.

Made possible by the generous gifts of many alumnae and students who knew her, a stone has been placed at the grave of Mary Scott, beloved maid at Mary Baldwin from 1910 until the time of her death in September, 1934. A marker, bearing the following inscription, has also been placed outside the maids' office in her memory:

MARY SCOTT

is erected to her memory

Mary Baldwin Seminary and College

whom she served so faithfully

1910-1934

Miss Claire King, Instructor in secretarial subjects, has been elected president of the Staunton branch of the American Association of University Women for the coming two years.

Professor John B. Daffin, head of the physics department, has recently published a monograph entitled The Visible and the Invisible. It is divided into three main parts, "Physical Radiations," including the theories of light, "Science and Religion" and "Radiations and Prayer."

Mary Baldwin will have the opportunity of nominating three students for Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. The students are to be selected on a basis of leadership, scholarship and character.

Dr. Mildred E. Taylor, professor of mathematics, has written the syllabus for the course in Mathematics 1, Freshman Mathematics. The course goes at once into new material, review material being introduced only when necessary. Analytical geometry is the basis of the course, algebraic and trigonometric theories developed as needed. These courses are an attempt to follow the trend in the presentation of mathematical subjects and to prepare students for further mathematical study.

RECOGNITION GIVEN STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

At the meeting of the Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association, held in Blacksburg October twenty-sixth and twenty-seventh, Mary Baldwin certainly took the honors, receiving more awards than any other member, college or university.

Campus Comments, edited by Helen Miller, '35, of New Hope, Va., tied with The Virginia Tech, of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, for first place. The latter was recently judged the most typical college newspaper in the United States by the National College Association.

The Mary Baldwin Miscellany, which was edited last year by Bessie Stollenwerck, '34, of Staunton, won first place in Class A, while the Bluestocking, edited by Mary Bell Archer, '35, of Clarksdale, Miss., tied with The Spinster of Hollins for second place in Class B.

This is a splendid record, and we congratulate the staff of each of these publications upon their achievements.

FROM THE ALUMNÆ CHAPTERS

Atlanta

Although no official report has come in from the Atlanta Chapter, they have held two meetings so far this year. The first meeting was held on January 17th at the home of Frances Woolford, '34. Dean Pfohl was the guest of honor at this time. The second meeting was held on January 31st at the home of Lucy Bagley Thornton, '07. Mary Moore Pancake, the alumnae secretary, was present and spoke to the Chapter on this occasion. A fuller account of the year's work will appear in the next issue.

Baltimore

The Baltimore Chapter met on Tuesday, February 26th, at the home of Harriett Sproul Allnutt, 4208 Charles Street. Considering the fact that it was a very rainy day and that four of our members were out of town, the attendance was fine, and we had a perfectly delightful time. Those who came were Marie Macdonald Burch, Anne Macdonald Owen, Mildred Warfield Raleigh, Mrs. Joseph Green, Winifred Berry Cassard, Hester Riddle Joslyn, Marie Rouse Gore, Elizabeth Brooke Coleman, Fannie Adams Tait, and Katherine Macdonald Conklin.

A message from Maggie Bell Roller Robinson, President of the Alumnae Association, was read and officers elected for the next two years. Katherine Macdonald Conklin was reelected chairman.

Plans for our next meeting, which will be held at the home of Elizabeth Brooke Coleman, '11, were discussed. We are going to bring our old school annuals and pictures and compare the different years.

A number of the members paid their dues.

Respectfully submitted,

KATHERINE Macdonald CONKLIN, Chairman.

Florida

The Florida Chapter met at the Miami Biltmore Hotel on January 31st at one o'clock. After luncheon, a business meeting was held in the lounge.

The motion was carried that fifty cents a year be paid for a local chapter treasury in addition to the $1.00 paid for National Treasury. Following a discussion, a motion was made and seconded that we sponsor a second chapter in Florida to take in the northern part of the state. Mrs. Felix Green, Palm Beach, was appointed to take care of this.

Changes that have taken place in Mary Baldwin were discussed, after which the meeting adjourned. Following the meeting, we went to visit Mrs. Quarles, who was unable to attend. Her husband was a member of the Board of Trustees of Mary Baldwin for a number of years, and we had invited her to join us at our luncheon. We then went to visit Miss Marguerite Driscoll, who is an invalid and was also unable to attend. We brought her our floral table centerpiece.

Members present included Mrs. W. H. Gardner, Mrs. Welty Compton, and Mrs. Felix Green, all from Palm Beach, Mrs. A. Evan Moon, Jr., of Trenton, N. J., Mrs. R. J. Finn, of Elizabethtown, Ky., Miss Elsie Carleton, Miss Sybil Reid, and myself, of Miami. As a visitor, we were glad to have with us Mrs. Elizabeth A. Carleton.

We adjourned our meeting at five o'clock, all very enthusiastic about our chapter.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANCES Benson BOUGHTON, Chairman, '36x'34.

Harrisonburg

The date for the spring meeting of the Harrisonburg Chapter has not been set, but Helen Morrison, '29, chairman, reports that there will be one and that they are also going to have a benefit at the home of Josephine Stephenson Boyer, '96.

Los Angeles

Elizabeth Cox Douglas, '13, chairman of the California girls, sent out over fifty cards in regard to a meeting. The response was favorable, although she did not hear from every Mary Baldwin alumna in California. Rally to her support, girls, and make the meeting to be held at Edith Holbrook Kennedy's, '98, home in Whittier the most successful and largest one you have ever had.

Lynchburg

The Lynchburg Chapter has held two meetings this year. On December 4th Mary Wood Harriss was hostess to the chapter, and at this time officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

PAULINE Phipps SHOTWELL.....	Chairman
FLORENCE MOUNT.....	Secretary
FRANCES Leys HORNER.....	Treasurer

A contribution from this chapter to the Missionary Scholarship Fund was voted.

On January 15th a very interesting meeting was held at the home of Alice Aunspaugh Kyle, who presided in the absence of the chairman, who was ill. Maggie Bell Roller Robinson, National President of the Mary Baldwin Alumnae Association, gave an illuminating talk on the growth of the college in the last few years. Mary Moore Pancake, our alumnae secretary, spoke of the work of the Alumnae Association and its work for the Alumnae Club House.

We were all delighted that Emily Cornelia Wise Moore could be with us. She told some delightful stories of the school life before Miss Mary Julia Baldwin became the principal. Mrs. Moore attended Mary Baldwin in 1862 and is one of our oldest living alumnae.

Those present at the meeting were Louise Burroughs Wheatley, Frances Leys Horner, Emily Cornelia Wise Moore, Trammell Beall Cox, Claude Simmons Thompson, Mary Wood Harriss, Laura Echols, Macon Pettyjohn Winfree, Cora Tinsley Karr, Nonye Wholey McNamara, Douglas Summers Brown, Rebecca Williams Holoman, Mildred Kinnier, Margaret Neff Poor, Alice Aunspaugh Kyle, and Eugenia Aunspaugh.

Respectfully submitted,

FLORENCE MOUNT, '37'34, Secretary.

Richmond

The Richmond Chapter met on November 23rd at four o'clock at the home of Susan Hoge. Nineteen members were present, including nine new ones. Anna Parker, the chairman, presided. After welcoming those present, she called on Eva Bowe Stern, organizer of the chapter and its chairman for several years, for a few words. Mrs. Stern told us something of Mary Baldwin Seminary during her years there and concluded with praise of the college of today and its administration.

Bessie Stollenwerck, graduate of the class of '34, made a short talk about Mary Baldwin under its present student government, which allows the students to enjoy more privileges and greater freedom.

The chairman then read a part of a letter which she had received from our national executive secretary telling of the proposed alumnae week-end and the educational advantages the college hopes to offer the alumnae.

Miss Parker especially welcomed the new members to our chapter and gave each an opportunity to tell the group what occupation or educational enterprise she was following at that time.

Miss Kate Anthony gave a report on the scholarship awarded annually by the college through this chapter to a graduate of a high school in Richmond. She asked that any alumna who wished to propose the name of a candidate get in touch with her.

The meeting closed with informal tea.

MARY AGNES GRANT, Secretary.

Rockbridge County, Virginia

Tuesday, April 2nd, Hope Stuart, chairman, has set as the date for the spring meeting of the Rockbridge County girls. Maggie Bell Roller Robinson, president of the Alumnae Association, and Mary Moore Pancake, executive secretary, will be there to tell the latest news of the Alma Mater and of the Alumnae Association. There will be much to hear, so don't miss this meeting.

Spartanburg

We extend greetings to our most recently organized chapter, Spartanburg, South Carolina. Here, on the afternoon of January 30th, at the home of Virginia May Drummond '01, the first meeting was held. Mary Moore Pancake, '28, the alumnae secretary, was there and told the latest news of the school and of the work of the Alumnae Association, what it has done and what it hopes to do. The following officers were elected: Mary Berkeley Simpson, '00, chairman, Kitty Drummond, '34, vice-chairman, Susie Lee McElroy Crooks, '05, secretary, Bessie VanLear Goff, '90, treasurer. Plans for the future were discussed, and we will be hearing more of their activities.

We are perfectly thrilled and delighted over this new and enthusiastic chapter, so enthusiastic, in fact, that every single person paid her dues and that we lingered over the teacups until a very late hour, chatting gaily about Mary Baldwin.

Staunton

The Staunton and Augusta Chapter held its annual meeting on August 15th at the home of Mrs. M. W. Mercereau.

The chairman, Mary Tomlin Braxton Callison, presided. In the absence of the secretary, Mary Blackley, the minutes of the last meeting were read by Margaret Ellen Bell Lambert.

The chairman reported the activities of a busy year, as follows: an active part in arranging for the alumnae tea held on Miss Baldwin's birthday, a fashion show, held in March in the gymnasium of the Staunton Military Academy, and two teas in honor of the students, held in April at the home of Constance Curry Carter.

The treasurer announced that our pledge of $175.00 to the National Association has been paid in full.

Emily Pancake Smith reported that Bjorn Egeli had been selected by the Board of Trustees as the artist to paint the portrait of Mr. King and also of Dr. Fraser and that work would begin on October 4th, Miss Baldwin's birthday.

Mary Moore Pancake, the new alumnae secretary, was introduced and, in a few words asked for the continued support and enthusiasm of the alumnae. Maggie Bell Roller Robinson, newly elected president of the Alumnae Association, was also present and spoke of her hopes and plans for the coming year, urging us not to "bask in the sunshine of yesterday," but to go forward.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Chairman, Margaret Kent Bell, vice-chairman, Mary Linton Walton Earnest, secretary, Margaret Ellen Bell Lambert, treasurer, Dorothy Hisey Bridges. The Executive Board consists of Harriet Hogshead McIntyre, Emma Plecker Cassell, Margaret McChesney, Agnes Sproul, and two members to be selected by the incoming president.

After the business meeting, a social hour followed.

Respectfully submitted,

MARGARET ELLEN Bell LAMBERT, Secretary.

Washington

The fall meeting of the Washington Chapter of Mary Baldwin Alumnæ Association is the social meeting of the year. We were fortunate in having as our guests at the time Miss Pfohl, our own Dean, Miss Poole, the Assistant Dean, and two College students, Misses Stanard and Archer.

Miss Pfohl spoke with great enthusiasm of the College activities. It was a great privilege to hear her. Miss Poole told of her pleasure at being connected with our College.

Three new members were added to our list—Mrs. Baldwin F. Cooke (Eleanor Daniel), Miss Betty Keith Harrison, and Mrs. Reime Harvey Hofstead.

Mary Baldwin has sent out many girls who have been a credit to her. It was a pleasure to have as our guest speaker one of them—Mrs. Lucille Foster McMillin, '91, United States Civil Service Commissioner. She has lost none of her charm of earlier years and spoke of her work, which was most interesting to us all.

Mrs. Conrad Syme, was our hostess for the afternoon. Mrs. Leslie Cox (Doris Crampton), presided over the coffee cups and Mrs. Cook and Miss Gloria Jones assisted Mrs. Syme. There were about twenty-five members and friends present, and it was a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon.

Respectfully submitted,

MARGARET W. DANIEL, Secretary.

Eastern Pennsylvania

On the night of December 4th the Eastern Pennsylvania Chapter met at the home of Kitty Shankweiler. For an hour we talked loud and excitedly about our friends and school days, playing the game of "do you know!"

Settling down to business, we decided to hold our meetings twice a year, in April and October, in the spring collecting dues, etc.

The alumnæ week-end was discussed and we recommended that reading courses and bibliographies of courses offered at Mary Baldwin be sent to the alumnæ, particularly to those who could not come back for the week-end.

After the business, Kitty served lovely refreshments, and after more enthusiastic Mary Baldwin conversation we adjourned, convinced that Mary Baldwin is "the best."

HARRIETT SEEM, Chairman.
